CANNOT give a better relation of the fact which is the subject of the following ballad, than in an extract from the late Mr. Guthrie s Peerage, which was begun upon a very elegant plan, but never finished. Vol. L 4to. p. 22. The transaction which did the greatest honour to the earl of Surrey t and his family at this time (a.d. 15 11), was their behaviour in the case of Barton, a Scotch sea-officer. This gentleman s father having suffered by sea from the Portuguese, he had obtained letters of marque for his two sons to make reprisals upon the subjects of Portugal. It is extremely probable, that the court ot Scotland granted these letters with no very honest..
