Not illustrated. 1760 Excerpt: . almost as soon as we got to our station, a fatal accident happened the Prince Edward tender; for on the thirteenth, having the day before seen a large fleet of ships to the number of twenty, and being in close chase of them, as she erouded sail after us, we saw her.on a sudden reel strangely in the water, and then founder stern fore-, most, contrary to all other ships in sinking, as they generally go down by the head. All the boats were got out as soon as possible; but notwithstanding every assistance, the only persons saved were Mr. Hamilton and two men, who kept themselves above water by their own swimming, till the boats got to them; all the rest perished. rished to abouj ten. Surprizing it is to think how deficient our common seamen in general are in that exercise, so very essential to their profession! This sad catastrophe was occasioned by her mainmast starting out of the step in which it was placed, not having had sufficient hold thereof; for by the straining of it in crouding sail, the heel flipt out, and then the mast again plunging downwards by the weight of the shrouds and sails upon it, run through her bottom, and funk her instantly; the weight of. the mast flipping backwards, sending her down by the stern as before described. The ships we were in cbace of proved to be a fleet of Dutchmen, under convoy of two...
