Not illustrated. 1896 Excerpt: .pleasure and pain reactions, we find an answer suggested to the first question also, i. e., the question as to how the organism comes to make the kind and sort of movements which the environment calls for--the movement variations wfw and wfere they are required. The pleasure or pain produced by a stimulus--and by a movement also, for the utility of movement is always that it secures stimulation of this sort or that--does not lead to diffused, neutral, and characterless movements, as Spencer and Bain suppose; this is disputed no less by the infant s movements than by the actions of unicellular creatures. There are characteristic differences in vital movements wherever we find them. Even if Mr. Spencer s undifferentiated protoplasmic movements had existed, natural selection would very soon have put an end to it. There is a characteristic antithesis in vital movements always. Healthy, overflowing,....
