Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Music Appreciation Taught by Means of the Phonograph for Use in Schools The main purpose of this text is to fill the heart and soul of the child with the spirit and love of the beautiful, that he may live more abundantly and seek wholesome and attractive entertainment in his leisure hours. Any child who has been taught to listen to all the beautiful records provided in this Course will go out into the world with his mind and heart open to the cultural and ethical significance of the finer things of life. Time was, when it seemed necessary for a student of music to drudge through long years of practice and drill, to attain finally the pleasure of music appreciation. By these tedious processes, only the rare and gifted few ever reached the ultimate joys they sought. Is not, then, the child of today exceedingly fortunate to be living in an age when it is entirely unnecessary for him to pass through such laborious exorcises? Tho invention of the phonograph, followed by its adaptation to school needs, has removed all these obstacles from the pathway of the modern child. For several years past, experimentation in the application of the phonograph to school use has been proceeding. The movement has now progressed to such a stage that a phonograph and a library of music records may well be regarded as an essential part of the equipment of every public school building. Heretofore, however, a serious difficulty has been encountered in constructing courses of study in music appreciation based upon tin* use of the phonograph. This limitation has been the lack of any systematic collection of...
